Singer, General Manager Otto Stallman and Col. S. E. Este Mr. Green was seen by a Herald reporter and stated that the business revival in the east is not so rapid as it might be. He was detained in Denver several days by sickness and was there met by General Manager Stallman of the copper company. Otto Mears, another member of the company, took part in the conference which pertained principally to the Colorado interests of the company. The copper product in the vicinity of Durango is found to be inadequate to the demands and capacity of the copper company's smelting plant at that place. place. The company have decided to put in a new blast furnace at Durango and will treat lead as well as copper ores.

Mr. Green stated that the company had secured control of large copper properties in New Mexico, and if they fulfill the predictions of their experts, the Durango plant will have a boundful copper supply. The matte from Durango will be shipped to Salt Lake as soon as the plant in this city is prepared to refine the copper.

Referring to the copper plant here Mr. Green said that, under the unfavorable conditions of the past six months, the progress had been most satisfactory. More work had been done and more money expended on the plant than really showed on its face. The buildings are now beginning to rise over the foundations and the plant is assuming the aspect of a complete hive of industry.

Operations for the past month have not been so aggressive as might be desired, owing partly to Mr. Green's absence in the east. His return will give the plant an impetus and next Monday Manager Stallman says that an additional force will be put on and things will hum till the smelter is completed. Mr. Green, notwithstanding the stringency in the money market, has secured the necessary money to insure the completion of the plant. "It would be wholly out of the question," said Mr. Green last evening, "to cease work now, after going this far with the plant. Operations at the plant will now be pushed with vigor, and in a few weeks we will have the smelter ready and running. We realize that it is about time we were getting to work, and we are now in a position to carry out all our plans."

Mr. Green will remain in Salt Lake for some time to come, his negotiations in the east having evidently been successfully completed. New York, Jan. 28.

Ibsen as a Faddist.

It is said that Henrik Ibsen is faddy almost to the point of old maidism. and cannot endure disorder. One of his fads is to be very secretive in his work, no on ever knowing what he is doing until the last sheet of his manu script is in the printer's hands. He i apparently not without belief in "mascot." A recent visitor says: "B the side of the lnk pot on the tabl the side of the lik pot on the table on which so many remarkable books have been written there stood a little tray and on the tray one of those small carved wooden bears, so common in Switzerland.
